

Safety in Jordan

One of the most common questions we get asked about Jordan is about safety, specifically “Is it safe for tourists?”

The short answer is “Absolutely”.

Jordan maintains excellent relations with its neighbouring countries, and is a true oasis of peace within the region. It is also a very progressive place, but has moved forward in such a way as to protect both the cultural identity of its roots and the stability of the country and its people. In fact, the people are one of the reasons you’ll feel so secure. As soon as you step off the plane you’ll be amazed by their warmth and good nature, and at times their hospitality seems to know no bounds.

So whether you’re on a guided tour or going it alone, you can relax in complete peace of mind knowing that you’re in one of the safest places to travel in the world.
